COUNCILMEN VISIT YORK

Gettysburg Town Councilmen Visited York on Friday with Purpose of Inspecting Various Methods of Street Paving.

To inspect the various kinds of paving in York, preparatory to making plans for the paving of one or more squares in Gettysburg members of the town council and other borough officials made a special trip by automobile on Friday afternoon returning home in the evening after a most satisfactory trip.

Councilmen Harry S. Trostle, William D. Armour, John D. Keith, Harry Koch and William F. Codori, Burgess Holtzworth, Borough Attorney White and Street Commissioner Newman made up the party which left Gettysburg shortly after noon on Friday in automobiles of C. B. Redding and Charles S. Duncan, Esq., both of whom donated the use of their cars. Mr. Redding drove his own car and William F. Codori, Jr., drove the Duncan car, also without charge.

The Gettysburg party arrived in York about two o'clock and were met by R. B. McKinnon, city engineer of York at the time the paving, which was viewed, was constructed. A thorough inspection was made by the Gettysburgians, different sections of the city being visited and the various kinds of paving viewed with care.

Asphalt laid eleven years ago and asphalt laid within the past two years, bitulithic, vitrified brick paving down five years and the same material down only two years, were all inspected, each official being left to draw his own conclusions.

After getting supper the party returned to Gettysburg. At Wednesday evening's meeting of Council reports will be made on the trip and it is expected that an ordinance providing for a beginning of paving work will be presented. This will, it is expected, be passed and then after thirty days, as required by law, passed finally. It is not probable that the material to be used will be specified in the ordinance.

MAY LOSE SIGHT OF EYE

Charles Robert, of Hanover, well known here as an extra engineer of the W. M. R. R., may lose the sight of his eye, as the result of a peculiar accident at York Wednesday morning. Mr. Robert had just finished filling one of the lubricators before starting the engine when the glass oil cup exploded, a fragment of which struck the eye ball, inflicting a painful injury. The unfortunate man was taken to his home, where the injury was dressed by Dr. J. H. Bittinger. The same evening he was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital, Baltimore, where the physicians fear the sight of the eye has been destroyed.

NEW CARRIAGE FACTORY

The new and commodious building of the Blocher Carriage Works, Littlestown, has been completed and is now occupied. The building is two stories high and is attached to the brick building, giving a total depth of 112 feet. The building is practically fire proof, having concrete floors and being covered with corrugated iron. There are trimming and wood working departments and also an additional room for painting purposes. The first floor has been built with the garage idea in view and is very commodious. Notwithstanding the increased facilities Mr. Blocher states that his shop is crowded with work.

BIGLERVILLE W. C. T. U.

The February meeting of the Biglerville W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. Dena Bream Tuesday. The Willard Memorial Day was observed. Quotations from Frances E. Willard were given in response to roll call. A number of pen pictures from her life were read. Mrs. Elsie Heiges, Mrs. Minnie Searly and Miss Sara Quickel read papers bearing on the work done among the Indians and the negroes through the influence of the Willard Memorial. The next monthly meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Emma Ullrich March 5.

SHACK BURNED AT BITTINGER

A one and one-half story frame house, near Bittinger's Station, occupied by employees in the nearby lime kilns, caught fire Thursday afternoon and was completely destroyed. The cause is said to have been an overheated stove. The property was owned by Maurice Bittinger, and was insured. The loss is estimated at about $500.

SCHOOL PATRONS HOLD MEETING

Parent Teachers Association Held Largely Attended Meeting in High School Building on Friday Evening. Good Addresses.

The interest of Gettysburg people in the welfare of the public schools of the town was never more clearly demonstrated than on Friday evening when the High School room was filled with parents and patrons of the schools of the town. Dr. J. George Becht, secretary of the State Board of Education, who attended the meeting declared that, although he had been present at similar gatherings in many different parts of Pennsylvania, he had never seen such a large attendance anywhere. Between thirty and forty new members were elected at the meeting.

That the interest is active and of a practical nature was shown by the reports of seven or eight ladies who had been appointed as members of the visiting committee. Each one of these ladies made an individual written report telling of suggestions which had occurred to them for the betterment of the schools on visiting the various rooms. Matters for commendation and matters for criticism were brought out in the various reports which showed the careful thought given by the ladies in the tour of the schools.

The entertainment part of the program consisted of a reading by Mr. Cramer of the college and several selections by the college orchestra. There were two addresses one by Dr. S. E. Weber, of State College, and the other by Dr. Becht.

Both of the speakers emphasized the importance of the care and supervision of the individual child and the danger of compelling children to adapt themselves to rules unsuited to their natures. The matter of providing some methods for the child to let out its nervous energy was also brought out. The speakers advocating play grounds, domestic science and manual training as several means of accomplishing this end. The value of manual training was specially urged by the speakers.

Mrs. Keith read a paper telling of "The Aim and Purpose of the National Congress of Mothers," the state meeting of which will be held in Gettysburg this year.

MAGICIAN COMING

The Carlisle Sentinel has the following to say of Keene, the magician, who will appear at the Wizard Theatre on Thursday evening, February 15: "Keene has never yet seen anything in the line of spiritualism or occultism he has not been able to reproduce at once by means of what he calls 'simple trickery.' Mediums have boasted in his hearing that no magician could reproduce such and such a test because it was not attained by trickery. Keene has in every case reproduced the test in question in a manner that astonished even the mediums. His work is clean and open and his audience is apparently given every opportunity to see and examine all parts of his paraphernalia."

FOX CHASE ON FOOT; RUNNERS BEAT HORSES

A fox chase held at York Springs on Tuesday afternoon demonstrated that the town has some prize cross country runners. After the hounds had been turned loose three young men, James Trump, Oscar Whitcomb and Charles Richwine started forth on foot in competition with the horseback riders, and after a chase of about five miles Richwine grasped the prize which the hounds had just dispatched. The other two fellows arrived a few seconds later and were far ahead of any of the riders.

FIRE AT EAST BERLIN

The home of David Bosserman at East Berlin, was badly damaged by fire smoke and water. One day this week the fire, which originated from the furnace spread rapidly through the building. The fire department responded promptly to the alarm and did good work in saving the building from entire destruction. The loss to the building, furniture, etc., is quite heavy.

DANCING class at Armory Tuesday evening instead of Monday. Dancing with good music from 9 to 11.30.

DECISION SOON ON LINCOLN WAY

Final Decision on Fate of Lincoln Way Proposition will Come within the Next Thirty Days according to Present Plans.

Within thirty days Congress will decide whether the memorial to Abraham Lincoln shall be in the form of an up-to-date highway, used by thousands of people, or in an architectural recognition in the form of a Greek temple, located in one of the Washington parks.

Before the library committee of the House of Representatives, March 5, at 10 o'clock in the morning, there will be a hearing on Representative Borden's measure which provides that the memorial shall be in the form of a highway. Though the commission in general charge of the memorial plan recently decided in favor of utilizing a site located on the Mall in Washington, it is a matter of common knowledge that Speaker Clark is emphatically in favor of the highway, while Cannon possessed an idea contrary to the decision of the commission.

Furthermore, a canvass of the House of Representatives seems to indicate a very large percentage in favor of the road, and it should be kept in mind that the Senate in 1908 passed a resolution which provided for a fund to make a survey of the route of the proposed road from Washington to Gettysburg. Thus it would appear that the whole matter was destined for a thorough thrashing out in Congress, following the report of the House library committee, which is not bound to accept the report of the commission.

In the course of his address before the Federal Aid Good Roads Convention recently held in Washington Speaker Clark expressed these sentiments: "Congress appropriated $50,000 for the purpose of having plans and specifications drawn for a Lincoln memorial, and agreed to appropriate $2,000,000 to build it. There have been all sorts of propositions. It seemed to me to be absolutely unanswerable that Abraham Lincoln was one of the most practical of all the sons of Adam. In the first place, he didn't need any memorial, anyhow, but if he could be consulted about spending $2,000,000 to build him a memorial, he would undoubtedly want one that would do something that is now living, or to live hereafter, some good; and that his fame was inseparably linked up with Washington and Gettysburg; made the most remarkable speech at Gettysburg that any man ever made, or that any man ever will make, I suppose. A road would be of some service, and a monument, too. One thing I know is that it was settled a long time ago that if the Federal government wants to help build roads, it has got the right to do so. That much is certain. But the practical suggestion that I have to make in connection with Federal aid is that all the road advocates ought to agree on a plan and come here with it."

PIERCE HAS LEFT

Ernest F. Pierce, who for several years past has been a state orchard demonstrator for York and Adams counties, has left York. He has gone to West Chester, his former home, and where one of his daughters is a member of the faculty of the West Chester State Normal School.

Mr. Pierce was for years engaged in that place and was one of the best versed men in the state on botany and horticulture. He was an expert in fruit growing and was familiar with all the pests that infect trees, shrubs, vines and plants. Farmers in York and Adams counties have received valuable information from Mr. Pierce during the period he was connected with the state agricultural department. His successor has not yet been announced by Prof. Surface.

SHOT AND KILLED WIFE ON STREET

Slays Her After Visiting the Mayor of Lancaster.

Lancaster, Pa., Feb. 10.—Albert Wohlfahrt, aged twenty-eight years, a silk weaver, shot and killed his wife just outside of city hall, in the center of the city.

Wohlfahrt and his wife had been quarreling over domestic affairs and resolved to separate. They called upon Mayor McClain to see whether he could have their three children placed in a charitable institution. The mayor told them they would have to go to the court.

Immediately upon leaving the mayor's office Wohlfahrt drew a revolver from his pocket and opened fire on the woman. He fired three shots. One bullet penetrated her brain causing instant death. Wohlfahrt, upon assuring himself that the woman was dead, fled and escaped, although pursued by a crowd that had been attracted by the shooting.

The tragedy is said to be the result of the wife's manner of life. The oldest of their children is seven years. Neighbors say the wife locked them in the house at night while she went away, the husband being at Reading, where he was employed.

Mrs. Chaplain and two daughters, who had also inhaled the gas, were taken unconscious from the Chaplain home, but the physicians who were working over them said that there was some hope for their recovery. A gas tube leading to a stove had become disconnected while the family was asleep and the leaking gas had filled the house.

ONLY UNION MEN ARE INDICTED

Attorneys Not Included in Federal Dynamite Dragnet.

ARRESTS COMING MONDAY

Secrecy as to Methods Is Still Maintained, So That No Rumors May Balk the Raids.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 10.—When the arrests on the government indictments in the dynamite cases have been made it may be found that only members of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers or men closely connected with the union have been taken into custody.

Men connected with the union as attorneys are said not to have been indicted. Further, it is reported from high authority that no members of the American Federation of Labor have been indicted except those connected with that organization through affiliation of the iron workers.

It is learned also that the number of persons indicted is not so great as at first supposed. Aside from those already indicted in Los Angeles for conspiracy in transportation of dynamite, it is believed that no more than twenty-five new names will be added to the list. Indictments have been voted, it is believed, against the two McNamoras, now serving sentences in a California prison at San Quentin, and against Orville E. McManigal, once more safely confined in the Los Angeles county jail.

It is practically certain now that arrests will be made in at least three southern cities and for the most part other arrests will be made in places where dynamite explosions have occurred.

Preparations for the arrest of the indicted men nears completion. Unless there is some hitch in the plan, therefore, the arrests will be made simultaneously on Monday. It is reported that the plans for the arrests have been worked out to the last detail, and that some mistakes made in the bucketshop raid would not be repeated.

Diffidence in time will be taken into consideration, the arrests east and west all occurring at the same time. This would probably bring raids in the east late in the afternoon.

President Frank M. Ryan refused to comment on a statement made by him in the Bridgemen's Journal on the possibility of arrest. After advising the members of the union not to be alarmed over the possibility of indictment, he ends with the slogan uttered by President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, after the McNamara confession: "Grit your teeth and organize."

"Personally, I want to say that I can see through the game easily," says Ryan's statement, after referring to reports that a number of iron workers' officers are to be arrested. "It being a plot of persecution rather than a dynamite conspiracy. I know that if we all stick together it will be a clear vindication and a benefit in the end. A few may get railroaded to jail, but history proves that the world has always crucified its savior."

Ryan also refused to discuss a report that W. Newton Harding, a local attorney, had been retained to defend him in case of his indictment. Secretary Hoskin would not discuss the report, and Harding also was silent.

"COMMERCIAL PATRIOTISM"

Bitter Attack on Fees to Enter Mount Vernon Estate.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 10.—Vigorous demand was made for a reduction of the entrance fee to the Mount Vernon estate and a dissolution of the alleged transportation alliance between the railroad and steamship companies and the Mount Vernon Ladies' association, which has legal possession of Washington's home.

W. H. Lowder, secretary of the Mount Vernon Anti-Fee association, renewed his attacks on the women's organization, charging that it received annually $70,000 and spent only $20,000, characterizing this as "an excellent commercial exploitation of the country's patriotism." He insisted that the charter of the Ladies' association be canceled. The committee adjourned to a further hearing next week.

Gas Explodes; Physician Is Killed.

Erie, Pa., Feb. 10.—Dr. Louis Hensler died in a hospital here from injuries received a few hours earlier when a rubber tube connecting a gas stove with a chandelier became detached and the escaping gas exploded from a lamp near his bed. Dr. Hensler jumped through a window to the roof of an adjoining building and was horribly injured. The house was wrecked by the explosion.

Smothered to Death Under Coal.

Philadelphia, Feb. 10.—John Coughlan was buried under eighty tons of coal, dropped on him while he was at work in a coal pocket at Mathew's coal yards, Tenth street and Washington avenue, and died of asphyxiation while the entire force at the yards, police from the Seventh and Carpenter streets station and railroad employees were making frantic efforts to dig him out.

WOMAN CHOKED TO DEATH

Autopsy Reveals Brutal Murder in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Feb. 10.—A brutal murder was brought to light in the coroner's court when Dr. William S. Wadsworth, the coroner's physician, testified that Jennie Deitz, thirty years old, who was found dead on Jan. 30 in her room at 437 North Percy street, had been choked to death.

The coroner's physician said that the autopsy on the body had revealed marks of violence on the woman's throat and showed that she had been choked so violently that her lower teeth and some of the upper ones had been loosened.

William DeKalb, the common-law husband of the woman, was committed without bail to await the grand jury's action, at the request of Assistant District Attorney Welsh.

How the woman was killed is a mystery to the police. DeKalb seems to have accounted for his movements, and they cannot understand how or where the woman was strangled. Her rooms showed no signs of a struggle. The coroner's physician said that the murderer caught the woman about the neck near the windpipe and exerted pressure enough to loosen her teeth.

MILLIONAIRE'S WIFE OUT OF WORKHOUSE

Mrs. Frederick Crandall Hears Husband is Wealthy.

New York, Feb. 10.—Mrs. Frederick Crandall, nee McManus, came over to New York from Blackwell's Island and learned for the first time that her husband was an heir of the late Edwin Hawley and a prospective millionaire.

Since Jan. 20 last she had been an inmate of the workhouse, sentenced there for "disorderly conduct and mischievous mischief," the outcome of a tenement house row. The children of the pair have been at Chatham, N. Y., awaiting their mother's release, and it is understood that she will join them there.

Young Crandall once was one of the late railroad millionaire's favorite nephews, but they quarreled in 1896 when Mr. Hawley learned of Crandall's attentions to Miss McManus, then a telegraph operator in the offices of the Southern Pacific railway, where he was employed. Since Hawley died intestate, Crandall will receive a share of the estate amounting, it is said, to more than $2,000,000.

"How does it feel to know you soon will have millions?" Mrs. Crandall was asked after she stepped from the Blackwell's Island boat.

"So far as I am concerned," was the reply, "it doesn't amount to a great deal; but we have five little ones and this will give us a chance to educate them properly—to bring them up right. They won't have to live in dirty tenement houses any more."

BISHIE GUILTY OF MURDER

Young Man Convicted For Slaying Messenger on Train.

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 10.—Eighteen-year-old William Peter Bishie, of Kingston, was returned guilty of first degree murder. Judge Newcomb commended the verdict.

Bishie resigned his job with the United States Express company at the Scranton station on the morning of Nov. 17 last. That night he got aboard Express Messenger Irvan G. Borge's car at Taylor, the next station south of Scranton, on the pretense of getting a ride to the city.

When the engine whistled for Scranton, Bishie shot the messenger from behind, gathered up the money, amounting to $365, that the messenger was carrying, and dropped off the train. He threw the revolver into the river, went to a nickelette and then to bed in his boarding house, where he was arrested.

PLAN MONEY TRUST PROBE

First Inquiry Will Be as to Whether One Really Exists.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Democratic members of the house committee on bank and currency met to plan the investigation of the "money trust" which was directed by the party caucus last Wednesday.

The committee expects to present a resolution to direct the committee to inquire whether a "money trust" exists. It will not, it is said, charge that there is a "money trust."

FARM BOOKKEEPING.

If You Don't Keep Records, How Do You Know the State of Your Affairs?

If there is any business in the world needing a set of books it is the farm. A fairly accurate bookkeeping plan will cause the farmer to make more money, because it will show up the unprofitable undertakings, and this showing will naturally cause the farmer to give his attention to those things which are revealed as profitable. On this matter of bookkeeping Andrew Boss of Minnesota says in the Kansas Farmer:

"Farming is now considered as a business. To be successful as a business man the farmer must adopt business principles. He should know the cost of production of the various farm products and which products can be grown and sold at the greatest net profit and with the least drain on the resources of his farm. He should know what he has invested in his business and the rate of interest his investment is paying; also whether he himself is earning anything or whether his income is earned altogether by his money. If the latter, he may as well invest his money in 6 per cent mortgages and take it easy himself.

"The only way to learn these facts is to take an inventory of the farm and equipment. Start a simple accounting system, carrying it through the year, and taking a balance at the close of the year. The accounting system need not be complex nor the labor exacting. Jan. 1 to April 1 is a good time to take an inventory, as the stock is at its lowest usually during that season. There are many simple forms of accounting suitable to the farmer's needs, any one of which forms may be used.

"The winter season offers many spare moments for studying these systems and putting one of them into use. Why not utilize the moments and do something that will be useful and at the same time add to the knowledge of the farm business? Often a grown son or daughter may be induced to become the account keeper, thus getting a good business training and improving the mind at the same time. And it is surprising how much use will be made of the facts recorded when once available."

FARMER'S BEST PLAN.

It is said that the best assurance for peace is for a nation to be prepared for war. Be that as it may, the surest plan for the farmer is to save the moisture he already has in the soil. This may be done by plowing and harrowing. "Pray, but keep the powder dry," was the admonition of a warrior.

WHEN KILLING POULTRY.

Simple Device Found Practical and Convenient in Handling Fowls.

Here is a device which poultry men of Boston have found very convenient in holding fowls during the killing process.

Nothing could be simpler or more effective. It consists of a string and a thin disk of wood hung from a nail, as shown at a in the drawing here-with. When to be used the fowl's legs are brought together in a horizontal position, as shown at b, and the disk passed around them as indicated by the heavy dotted line.

The disk is then placed beside the legs, but beyond the vertical part of the string. Now the fowl is lowered and allowed to hang head downward, as indicated at c. If applied in this way there is no danger of the fowl working loose. To release the bird the position is reversed and the disk slipped to one side.—American Agriculturist

Law Points For the Farmer.

The district court of Weld county, Colo., has decided that reservoirs located on government or railroad land cannot be held by mere entry and used without filings or condemnation. Reservoir owners will be obliged to buy their present sites outright or condemn them.

The time to read contracts for dear life is before you sign them. If folks took half the pains to keep out of trouble that they do to get out after they are in knee deep they would be a lot happier, richer and wiser. It is a good plan never to sign papers that are brought along by strangers.

The degree of care required of railroad companies toward their passengers, according to a recent Arkansas decision, is the highest degree of care which a prudent and cautious man would exercise and which is reasonably consistent with their mode of conveyance and the practical operation of their roads, and they are not bound to exercise the utmost diligence, human skill and foresight consistent with the mode of conveyance or liable for the slightest omission in this respect.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. versus Pafford, 128 S. W. 631.

CLAIM 780 VOTES FOR MR. TAFT

Canvass All States to Reach This Conclusion.

M'KINLEY NOW THE LEADER

Campaign For the President On In Earnest and a Big Majority In Convention Is Counted On.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The campaign for the renomination of President Taft began in earnest, when Representative William B. McKinley, of Illinois, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, who has assumed charge of the Taft headquarters in Washington; Senator Murray Crane, of Massachusetts, and C. D. Hillis, the president's secretary, held a first conference.

The three spent several hours together and discussed the political situation from Maine to California and from Washington to Florida.

After the meeting was over the statement was made that a thorough canvass of the country, as to conditions, convinced the Taft managers that the president would have 780 votes on the first ballot in the Chicago convention out of a total of 1076, or 241 more than the majority necessary for nomination.

To give the president the 780 votes in the convention, which his managers now claim for him, they have figured he will carry the following states: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia, Wyoming, Hawaii, Alaska, District of Columbia, Philippines and Porto Rico.

The opposition is conceded a number of complete delegations and parts of delegations. Among the states the opposition will carry, according to the Taft leaders, are California, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Washington and Wisconsin.

Mr. McKinley began work early and planned to see many of the party leaders now in Washington. Quarters for the Taft boomers have not been obtained, but within a few days Mr. McKinley expects to open offices.

Although Republican leaders said that it was too early to talk about the plans of campaign after the Chicago convention, many friends of Mr. McKinley were of the opinion that, if President Taft was renominated, Mr. McKinley would be his choice for chairman of the Republican national committee.

Mr. McKinley would probably be acceptable to all the old line party leaders. Some of these leaders have objected to Postmaster General Hitchcock and Charles D. Hillis, secretary to the president, both of whom have been prominently mentioned heretofore for national chairman.

ICE WORST IN HISTORY

Would Require Week's Thaw to Cause a Break.

Port Deposit, Md., Feb. 10. — The Susquehanna river is covered with solid ice from above Rock run, about three-quarters of a mile north of Port Deposit, to Poole's Island, a short distance north of Towchester, averaging about fourteen inches thick.

At Rock Run it measures nearly four feet thick and about two feet between Port Deposit and Havre de Grace. It is frozen further down the Chesapeake bay than ever before. On the big dam at McCall's Ferry, it is one solid cake from the dam breast to Safe Harbor, a distance of ten miles.

At present the citizens of Port Deposit are at ease, there is no cause for alarm as long as the present cold weather continues. Nothing short of a week's thaw or a hard rain will penetrate this solid body of ice. It has been prophesied by some of the old residents that Port Deposit is "doomed" this year, while others are placing their trust in the big dam at McCall's to hold the ice north of it until the ice at this point has broken up and passed out.

Democrats Reduce Cavalry.

Washington, Feb. 10. — The Democratic house made a raid on the cavalry branch of the army, voting into the army appropriation bill an amendment offered by Representative Hay, of Virginia, reducing the regiments of cavalry from fifteen to ten, or by 3580 men and 225 officers. Mr. Hay says his amendment will save the government $4,376,253 a year.

Eight Hurt In Trolley Crash.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 10.—Eight persons were hurt, one mortally, in a collision between a Springfield avenue and a Bergen street trolley car on Springfield avenue. The Bergen street car overturned and the passengers were pinned beneath the wreckage, which immediately caught fire.

Santiago, Cuba, Feb. 10.—Two registered packages of mail containing $30,000, consigned to the Spanish bank at Havana, have disappeared from the postoffice. It is supposed that they were stolen by two postal clerks, who are believed to have fled to Jamaica.

MITCHELL EXPLAINS CRITICISM OF COURT

Thought Plaa to Postpone Sentence Was Ignored.

Washington, Feb. 10.—John Mitchell's trial for contempt of court, in which he was involved with Samuel Gompers and Frank Morrison, officials of the American Federation of Labor, in connection with the Bucks Stove and Range company boycott case, took on a dramatic touch at the hearing.

Mr. Mitchell had seemed to be criticizing Justice Wright, before whom he is on trial, and the justice had displayed some impatience with his critic.

"Let me explain this," said Mr. Mitchell. "I have much in my heart, which I have never said, which perhaps, no place in these proceedings. At the time that I was summoned to Washington to appear before this court for judgment, I faced a long term in prison. It was on the day before Christmas eve. I was living in New York. I had not seen my family and children, who were in Illinois, for two months. I had bought and packed in my grip toys and gifts for my children. I was summoned to Washington to receive my sentence. I asked that the decision be postponed. It was not. I was brought here and sentenced."

"I had merely done what I believed was my right under the government my father had sought to uphold. So when I appeared and was sentenced and discussed it afterward I could not attempt to disguise and did not disguise my feeling at being sentenced on the day before Christmas, and I felt outraged that I did not receive the same consideration that would have been given to the worst offender in the land."

"Mr. Mitchell," interrupted Justice Wright, "you have shown some bitterness toward the court for the manner in which you were sentenced. What reason have you for believing that the court knew of your request for a postponement?"

"I wrote to the president of the American Federation of Labor and asked it," replied Mr. Mitchell. "I supposed that my request had been conveyed to the court."

"No request was conveyed to the court," replied the justice. "It came as a demand. There was an air of antagonism about it. It was a demand from the vice president of the American Federation of Labor for a postponement. I did not think he had any more right to demand it than any other man."

NEW ANTI-THIRD TERM PLAN

Senator Reed, of Missouri, to introduce Amendment to Constitution.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Senator Reed of Missouri, will introduce a resolution Monday providing for an amendment to the constitution to bar any man from holding the office of president of the United States more than two terms of four years each.

The filling of an unexpired term under the proposed amendment, is to be regarded as a full term.

Lives Endangered by Floods.

Madrid, Feb. 10.—The floods in the southern provinces are rapidly becoming worse. The minister of public works arrived in Seville to investigate the damage and the condition of the suffering population. He proceeded later to Camas, three miles away, where the inhabitants are in great danger.

Three Years For German Spy.

Winchester, Eng., Feb. 10. — Helmrich Grosse, a captain in the German merchant marine, who was arrested on Dec. 5 on a charge of espionage, was sentenced at the assizes to three years penal servitude. An Englishman is serving a similar sentence in Germany, charged with spying.

BUYING VOTES IN DELAWARE

Paid $10 For White and $5 For Colored Men.

DUPONT'S NAME MENTIONED

Testimony Before Senate Judiciary Committee Discloses Startling Conditions at Elections.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Ten dollars for white and five dollars for colored votes was the popular price paid in Delaware, according to testimony before the senate judiciary committee. The prices were arranged in private and no talking was done in public.

The "boss" would hold up his right hand, thereby indicating a five dollar purchase; elevating both hands demonstrated that a ten dollar man was to be paid. Distinctive buttons were distributed to the chosen as tokens for identification when coming to draw their share of the corruption fund.

The room of the judiciary committee was packed with residents of Delaware. The gathering attracted great attention because of the possibility that the right of Senator Henry A. DuPont to his seat might depend on the evidence submitted.

Judge Daniel O. Hastings appeared in behalf of Mr. Swain, saying that his client fell down stairs at the home of a relative in Washington, severely injuring his back. Judge Hastings admitted for Mr. Swain that on Saturday before the election in 1904 he carried $3000 in $20 gold pieces from Wilmington to Bridgeville, where he resided.

Former Senator J. Frank Allen testified under oath that he saw the $3000 handed to Swain by Caleb R. Layton, in a room adjoining the office of T. Coleman Dupont, in the Dupont building in Wilmington. He witnessed the transfer through an open door.

Newell Ball admitted taking the money from Bridgeville to Philadelphia and having it changed into bank notes. He declared emphatically that Swain told him the money was to be used in buying votes. He and two other men met Swain at the 6:10 train, Nov. 5, 1904. Swain waved the package in the air and shouted: "I've got her, boys!" meaning the money, which was in $20 gold pieces.

Plans for distributing the money were discussed at the home of J. T. Bandenburg. The money was poured out on the diningroom table. At Philadelphia it was changed into $10, $5, $2 and $1 bills. Ball and Swain told John Green, now dead, that the money was to be used in buying votes and not in paying committee expenses.

"Was the $3000 used in buying votes?" asked Senator Overman.

"It was," replied Mr. Ball.

Mr. Ball said the books of the fund would show how votes were bought. The books were kept by Edward Hazard. The harness room in H. P. Cannon's stable, in Bridgeville, was selected as the office for the distribution of the money.

Young men with political ambition were selected to approach those who might take money for their votes. A sign or emblem was given them for identification when settlement time arrived. This was given to the voter after depositing his ballot, and presented at the office for redemption. He said the books showed each transaction. He said there were about 1100 voters in the district and that between 400 and 500 of them could be bought. He said that in addition to the $3000, about $1000 was given to him and the entire sum used. On this occasion he said there were 350 and 400 votes were purchased at the rate of $10 a vote.

TAFT MAY NAME NAGEL

Expected to Appoint Him to Supreme Court Next Week.

Washington, Feb. 10.—After a conference with President Taft Senator Curtis and Representative Anthony of Kansas, said that the president would not fill the vacancy of the supreme court bench until next week.

The semi-official announcement had been made at the White House that the appointment would be decided upon at the meeting of the cabinet.

Senator Curtis said the president had promised to consider once more the claims made by Kansas in behalf of United States Judge Hook. Secretary Nagel was still regarded as the probable appointee.

22 Dead In Battle In Mexico.

Guadalajara, Mex., Feb. 10. — Sixty federal troops came into contact with 200 Zapatistas near Panjamo. Seven federals and fifteen rebels were killed during the battle. Bandits have been operating in Guanajuato and Michoacan for several days, and the express company refuses to accept valuables for shipment to those states.

Winchester, Eng., Feb. 10. — Helmrich Grosse, a captain in the German merchant marine, who was arrested on Dec. 5 on a charge of espionage, was sentenced at the assizes to three years penal servitude. An Englishman is serving a similar sentence in Germany, charged with spying.

SHINDLEDECKER-STONER

James E. Shindledecker and Miss Ruth G. Stoner were married at the Fairfield Lutheran parsonage, January 18, by the Rev. W. K. Fleck.

CO-OPERATION.

Call your family together and form a closer union. Ask for suggestions on how the income of the farm may be increased and the profits may be invested. Let each pull together for the good of the home.

Live Stock and Dairy.

If the sheep are exposed to the chill rains of autumn and winter coughs and colds are pretty sure to hang to them till next spring.

Cement hog floors are good, but chill the young pigs. Make a board frame or woven wire netting device to hold pigs and bedding in place. It will certainly pay.

A hog is a machine, one that oils itself, puts ten bushels of feed into less space than a bushel measure and in doing so doubles the value of the feed used, then carries it to market on his back.

The morning ration of the farm horse should contain about one-fourth of his daily ration. At noon another fourth should be given and at night the remaining heaviest feed. Most of the hay should be given at night and before the grain is given.

If cabbages are fed to dairy cows after milking they will not taint the milk, as happens when they are fed before milking. As a succulent food, higher in protein than other green feeds, cabbages deserve a place in the ration whenever cheaply obtainable.

TORSE LIGAMENT

Chauncey Colestock, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Colestock, of New Oxford, clerk in the Auker drug store, in that town, had the misfortune to slip and fall on an icy pavement one day recently, tearing a ligament in his left foot, which has caused him considerable pain. He is able to be about the store by the use of canes.

SOME GOOD ROAD POINTERS.

Suggestions to Supervisors on the Care of Highways.

SIMPLE BUT USEFUL DON'TS.

Expert Tells How to Keep a Road in Good Condition and Avoid Trouble. Don't Be Satisfied, He Says, With Anything but the Best.

Excellent advice on the care and construction of roads is contained in the following set of suggestions to road supervisors, which were compiled by Robert A. Meeker, state supervisor of roads in New Jersey:

Don't leave grass and weeds on the shoulders and in the gutters.

Don't dig the mud out of the gutters and throw it upon the road.

Don't leave dirt in piles on the road.

Don't throw grass and weeds upon the road surface.

Don't dump stone or gravel on an old road without first preparing the surface to receive it, because you thereby cause wilful waste and woeful want.

Don't place new material on the road without leveling and shaping it so that the grade and cross section of the road will be unchanged.

Don't expect travel to spread and roll the new material. One-half of the money spent is wasted by this method.

Don't put new material on an old hard road surface before first picking or loosening the old covering. It is good for the quarryman and gravel owner, but bad for the taxpayer and road user.

THE DIFFERENCE.

(Both these roads are in the same state. One is well taken care of, the other neglected.)

Don't try to do work without proper tools.

Don't leave your warrier in the shed. Don't forget to use your sprinkling wagon.

Don't let your steam roller be idle. Don't think any old tools are good enough for road work.

Don't use dull picks, broken shovels, dull scraper blades or broken and leaky steam rollers.

Don't waste your rainy days. Don't let water stand on your road.

Don't try to repair a road in dry weather without a liberal use of water. Don't allow culverts or pipes to become choked up.

Don't allow the outlets of underdrains to become stopped up. Don't let water get under a road.

Don't let ruts form. Don't let the road lose its original cross section.

Don't let the shoulders get higher than the center of the road.

Don't fail to widen your hills at every opportunity; no better place for the mud, grass and weeds taken off the road than on the sides of high embankments.

Don't use guard rails if you can get dirt to widen your road.

Don't bury a stone road under mud. Don't crown your road so high that no one will travel on the sides.

Don't forget that the entire width of the road is intended for use.

Don't expect a road to take care of itself.

Don't fail to locate all good repair material lying on or near the road.

Don't let experienced men go simply to give some one a job.

Don't lose sight of the fact that road repairing is a trade and must be learned.

Don't guess at the amount of material required. Measure and know.

Don't depend on some one else to tell you what the condition of your roads is.

Don't fail to visit every road under your care at least once a week.

Don't refuse to try any new material that may be offered unless the same has been proved bad.

Don't think there is nothing more to be learned about road building.

Don't forget that nobody knows it all.

Don't think because you do not hear the comments that your work is not being praised or criticised, as the case may be.

Don't look down on your work. Don't lose sight of the fact that good roads are one of the greatest factors in the development of any country.

Don't be satisfied with anything but the best.

A SERIOUS BLUNDER

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911

Edgar Ainsworth was editor of the Literary Review. One day he criticised a novel published under the name of Rosamond Stanford as follows:

"Her Mistake," by Rosamond Stanford (Jones Bros.), is a mistake all through. In the first place, it was a mistake for Miss Stanford to try to write a novel at all. Her hero, Milton Truesdale, is a prig. Her heroine, Alice Van Zant, would do very well for the leading lady of a child's play. The scenes are like a London fog, the characters as stiff as the figurehead of a sailing ship of the nineteenth century."

It was Saturday night when Ainsworth consigned the poor authoress' labor to oblivion, and the foreman of the composing room was calling for copy for the Literary Digest. The editor called a boy and sent up criticisms of six novels, all of which he had read that afternoon, to fill up the column unprovided for. Then he went home, put a hot water bag on his stomach, another on his cheek and after a few hours' more suffering went to sleep.

He awoke at 10 o'clock in the morning refreshed. After a bath and a breakfast he lounged, and if he saw a newspaper lying about he took it up and put it in the stove. He dined at 2, slept from 3 till 6, took tea and proceeded to make his usual Sunday evening call on his fiancée, Marion Schoefield.

Miss Schoefield, who had been used to his calls for several years, waiting while her lover condemned enough books to enable him to marry her, was, as usual, watching for her lover on Sunday evening at the parlor window.

Mr. Ainsworth was disappointed at not seeing her at the accustomed place. Fearing something serious had happened, he hurried into the house. Meeting her sister in the hall, he asked anxiously:

"Where is Molly?"

No answer.

"Great heavens! Is she ill?"

No answer.

"To tell me?"

"Molly is well enough. She'll be down presently."

Ainsworth walked the parlor floor for half an hour, when, looking up, he saw his love standing mute before him. She had entered so silently that she had not heard him. She looked as if she had been buried and exhumed.

"Rose-sweetheart!" he exclaimed. "What has happened?"

"A good deal has happened," was the reply.

"Tell me. I'm dying with suspense."

"Perhaps you will not think it a matter of importance. The truth has simply been spoken."

"The truth?"

"Yes. It is no fault of yours."

"Whose fault is it?"

"No one's. I have simply made a mistake."

"What mistake?"

"In trying to write a novel."

"You write a novel?"

"Yes. I have been engaged for more than a year on one."

"Well?"

"I have been advised by one near and dear to me—that's the worst of it—tremendously—that I made a mistake in trying to write."

"Who told you that nonsense?"

"Besides, I've discovered that the man I took for a model for my hero is a prig."

"Who did you take?"

"One I love."

"Good gracious! You didn't take me?"

"Yes, I did," with a sob.

"Well, well, sweetheart, who told you all this? Have you been getting some adulated fool's opinion on your manuscript?"

"The novel has been published."

"By whom?"

"Jones Bros."

Mr. Ainsworth began to see through a millstone.

"Has it been criticised?"

"Yes. A criticism appeared this morning."

"In what paper?"

"The Literary Digest."

Ainsworth saw that without a coup all was lost. "I wrote all the criticisms in today's issue. I wrote none on a book by you."

"My own name wasn't on the title page. It was Rosamond Stanford."

"What was the name of the story?"

"Her Mistake."

"Her Mistake? My gracious, Molly, how could you have tried to write a story of British society without ever having visited England?"

"I didn't."

"And that scene between the duke and Lady Taterton—it is ridiculous."

"There is no such scene in my novel."

"I shall stand by my guns. Your hero Auchincloss is a prig. I'll never give in on that."

"Auchincloss? He isn't my hero. My hero is Roy Courtenay. I drew him from you."

"There's no such man in 'His Mistake'."

"Her Mistake?"

"I'm talking of 'His Mistake'."

"My story was 'Her Mistake'."

"I begin to see it all. You are barking up one tree, I another. Isn't it funny that this middle should make a pun? We've both made a mistake. Kiss me, darling. I'll get at your book on Monday. But I warn you that if you've made me your hero you've struck a snag."

"I haven't any such thing. I've got a noble, good, true—"

"He stomped the rest with kisses."
